english has an interesting variety of noun phrases which differ greatly in structure examples are binominal two noun phrases a beast of a party possessive constructions the author s opinion and discontinuous noun phrases the review came out yesterday of his book how are these different noun phrases structured how do we produce and understand them these questions are central to this study which explores the interaction between the form of noun phrases their meaning and their use it shows how despite the need in linguistic analysis for strict categories many linguistic constructions in fact defy straightforward classification and concludes that in order to fully explain the internal structure of utterances we must first consider the communicative pragmatic and cognitive factors that come into play drawing on a range of authentic examples this book sheds light not only on the noun phrase itself but also the nature of linguistic classification the thesis shows that the song of songs can be read as a circular sequence of sub poems that follow logically from one another if they are understood as contributing to two main points made in a woman's voice the woman urges men to take romantic initiative to be committed exclusively and for life and urges women three times to wait until they are approached by such men if this reading is the best explanation of the text of the song then the song is a unified work centered on a woman singing about human romantic love from a woman's perspective
